

Organizational Change Explained

Organizational Change Explained

Case studies on transformational change in organizations

Sarah Coleman and Bob Thomas

Publisher's note

Every possible effort has been made to ensure that the information contained in this book is accurate at the time of going to press, and the publishers and authors cannot accept responsibility for any errors or omissions, however caused. No responsibility for loss or damage occasioned to any person acting, or refraining from action, as a result of the material in this publication can be accepted by the editors, the publisher or the contributors.

First published in Great Britain and the United States in 2017 by Kogan Page Limited

Apart from any fair dealing for the purposes of research or private study, or criticism or review, as permitted under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, this publication may only be reproduced, stored or transmitted, in any form or by any means, with the prior permission in writing of the publishers, or in the case of reprographic reproduction in accordance with the terms and licences issued by the CLA. Enquiries concerning reproduction outside these terms should be sent to the publishers at the undermentioned addresses:

2nd Floor, 45 Gee Street
London
EC1V 3RS
United Kingdom

c/o Martin P Hill Consulting
122 W 27th Street
New York, NY 10001
USA

4737/23 Ansari Road
Daryaganj
New Delhi 110002
India

© Sarah Coleman and Bob Thomas 2017

The right of Sarah Coleman and Bob Thomas to be identified as the authors of this work has been asserted by them in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

ISBN 978 0 7494 7547 5

E-ISBN 978 0 7494 7548 2

---

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

A CIP record for this book is available from the British Library.

---

Library of Congress Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

---

Typeset by Integra Software Services, Pondicherry

Print production managed by Jellyfish

Printed and bound in Great Britain by CPI Group (UK) Ltd, Croydon CR0 4YY

CONTENTS

About the editors xiii
About the contributors xv
Foreword xxiii

Introduction 1

Sarah Coleman and Bob Thomas

Business life trends 2
Organization challenges 4
Future business models 7
The future and organizations 8
Who this book is written for 9
How this book is structured 10
References 27

PART 1 The reality of organizational change – practitioner case studies and insights 29

---

01 Changing culture through conversation: organizational development in the NHS 31

Kelly Angus, Karen Dumain and Paul Taylor

Introduction 31
Background 32
Culture change 32
Why do we take culture seriously in the NHS? 33
OD practitioners leading culture change 34
Conclusion 42
References 44

02 Sparking change: a world of change in electricity transmission 46

Stephanie McGregor

- Introducing OFTO – a spark of change 46
- The story before OFTO: the status quo 47
- Designing a new industry model 48
- Long-term change is created 59
- Extending the new market model into other areas 61
- The regime continues to evolve 62
- Lessons learnt 63
- Conclusion 65
- References 66

03 The GlaxoSmithKline story: changing the way we change 68

Kevin Holmes

- Why did GSK need ADP? 68
- What is ADP? 69
- How did ADP come about? 74
- What is the impact of ADP? 81
- Conclusions and key insights from ADP 84
- References 87

04 Shaping, scoping and designing a new total operating model 88

Gillian Perry

- Introduction 88
- Background 88
- Project Marlborough 90
- Post Project Marlborough reflections 94
- The next chapter – Jurisdiction Model 2.0 (JDx 2.0) 95
- Summary of the approach to change management 100
- Conclusion 101
- References 103

05 The brain and adaptive change 104Paul Brown and Kate Lanz*

Introduction 104
Getting a mindset going 104
Relationship and change 106
The emotional brain 108
From brain to mind: how the human mind works 114
In summary, what are the implications for change programmes? 117
Change and the organization 118
And so finally we come to mind 120
Brain-based change in practice 121
Conclusion 122
References 122

06 Working with resistance to change 124Rod Willis, Anthony Burrows and Sarah Coleman*

Introduction 124
Enabling technology, virtual teams and resistance to change 125
Transformation, employee engagement and resistance to change 128
Conclusion 134
References 135

07 Creating the resilient organization 136Tianne Croshaw*

Introduction 136
Introduction to resilience 137
Assessing resilience levels: the six human needs 139
The shadow side of our needs 143
How people respond to change 147
How resilience training can help people embrace change 148
Key roles for organizational resilience programmes 150
Conclusion 151
References 153

08 Leading change in a not-for-profit organization 154Jacqueline Mitchell*

- Introduction 154
- Clarity of purpose – gaining buy-in 155
- Behavioural change programme 158
- Making change happen 160
- Outcomes 162
- Conclusion 163

09 Employee communication and engagement during change: insights from neuroscience 166Hilary Scarlett*

- Introduction 166
- Insights from neuroscience 167
- The role of storytelling in change 171
- The role of emotion in communication 173
- Sense of purpose 173
- Language 174
- Visual communication 175
- Case study: TUI UK & IRELAND: storytelling, involvement and visual communication 175
- Employee engagement during change – SPACES (©Hilary Scarlett) 177
- Conclusion 179
- References 180

10 Project Carpe Diem: the systematic journey of a multi-locational and multicultural transformational change programme in a large telecoms company 182Viren Lall*

- Introduction 182
- Background 183
- The first problem and the turnaround programme 184
- The second problem and the remedial programme 185
- The resulting challenges and lessons learnt 193

Project Carpe Diem 2.0 195
Conclusion 197
References 198

11 Operational readiness for change 199

Rod Willis, John McLelland, Kevin Parry and Sarah Coleman

Introduction 199
Getting operations ready for change 200
Getting ready for M&As 210
Conclusion 211
References 212

12 Managing change in Asia and the West: different windows, different views 213

Kevin Parry

Introduction 213
Change management concepts in conflict 214
Chinese business culture in managing change 216
Western business culture in managing change 224
Conclusion 226
References 226

13 Developing change capacity and capability in organizations 228

Robert Cole and Sarah Coleman

Introduction 228
Capacity for change 229
Change roles 235
Change capability 237
Conclusion 244
References 245

14 Risk and organizational change 246

Ruth Murray-Webster

Introduction 246
Change is risky 247

Making investment decisions 248
Protecting previous decisions 254
Conclusion: managing risk during organizational change 259
References 261

15 Embedding and sustaining change 262

Andy Wilkins and Kate Stuart-Cox

Introduction 262
Key #1: Be credible 264
Key #2: Use a flexible framework 265
Key #3: Embrace loose tight 267
Key #4: Develop people whilst developing the business 271
Key #5: Accept that everyone has their own path to high performance 272
Key #6: Build in commitment not compliance 273
Key #7: Learn how to have skilful conversations 276
Conclusion: the seven keys to embedding and sustaining change 278
References 279

16 Change innovation 281

John Pelton

Introduction 281
The Crossrail innovation programme 281
Leadership 284
People and behaviours 286
Resistance 289
Benefits 290
Conclusion 295
References 297

PART 2 The future of organizational change – opinion pieces from future thinkers 299

---

- 17    Opinion piece 1: the future and change 301
Ira Blake
- Introduction 301
  - Future change landscape 302
  - Competency to contribution: the changing role of the change manager 305
  - Closing thoughts 306
  - References 307
- 18    Opinion piece 2: leading the agile organization 308
Heather Bowers
- Introduction 308
  - Drivers of change 308
  - Corporate requirement for agility 309
  - Changing role of leaders 310
  - Conclusion 313
  - References 313
- 19    Opinion piece 3: the shift from complicated to complex 315
Heather Bowers
- Introduction 315
  - Traditional approach 315
  - A VUCA world 316
  - Impact on change management 318
  - In practice 318
  - Changing the mindset 319
  - Conclusion 320
  - References 320

20 Opinion piece 4: the future and manufacturing 321David Caddle*

- Introduction 321
- Importance of manufacturing to the economy 321
- The future of manufacturing 322
- Technology and innovation 323
- New market opportunities 325
- Highly skilled workforce 325
- Sustainability 326
- Conclusion 327
- References 328

21 Opinion piece 5: the future and local government 329Peter Glynn*

- Introduction 329
- 1. Devolution of power 330
- 2. More joined-up government 330
- 3. Further cost pressures and rationalization 331
- 4. Greater reliance on partnership working and volunteering 331
- 5. Commercialization of assets 332
- 6. Making digital change sustainable: 'climbing the maturity curve' 333
- Bringing it all together 333

22 Opinion piece 6: the future and healthcare 335Adi Gaskell*

- Health changes for an ageing population 335
- Smarter homes 336
- Bringing the doctor to you 337
- Mobile health 337
- Pulling this all together 338
- Driving change in the UK's National Health Service 338
- Conclusion 340
- References 340

Index 000

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Sarah Coleman helps organizations deliver better outcomes and value. She is an experienced programme director working in an interim and consultancy capacity with boards and senior leadership teams. She has worked extensively with multinationals, corporates and medium-sized enterprises across public and private sector organizations to plan, implement and assure major change programmes in the UK and internationally.

Her early career was spent in software and telecoms and, as technology is an acknowledged driver of change, she developed her passion for improving capability within organizations for successful change: the right change, landing well. She draws on over 25 years' practical experience of leading and supporting multi-million-GBP strategic projects, programmes and transformation, including technology implementation, outsourcing, procurement and culture change. She is valued for her ability to challenge positively and constructively, her ability to provide clarity and focus, and for her excellent communication skills.

Sarah is a Fellow of, and former non-executive director for, the Association for Project Management and a Chartered Fellow of the Chartered Management Institute. She holds an MBA from Cranfield School of Management, is Visiting Fellow at Lincoln University and Cranfield University, and is sought after to speak at business schools in the UK and abroad, and at events and conferences. She is a published author (Project Leadership, Gower, 2015; 'Dealing with power and politics' for Business Analysis and Leadership edited by Pullen and Archer, Kogan Page, 2013) and regularly contributes to professional journals on all things project, programme and change. Sarah is a Director at Business Evolution Ltd and can be contacted at sarah.coleman@businessevolution.co.

Bob Thomas is an experienced business change programme, portfolio, PMO and assurance manager with over 25 years' operational experience delivering and assuring major change programmes across leading public and private sector organizations. He has implemented green field corporate PMIS systems into Railtrack, DVLA licensing systems into Toyota and Suzuki, provided delivery assurance on the NHS's £1 billion CRS system and programme-managed numerous multi-million-pound business transformational programmes for Innovate UK, the Medical Research Council and Kent County Council. Recently, for the Post Office, he worked on its £125 million Crown Transformation Programme, which rolled out a new operating business model across 300 Crown Post Office branches nationwide as part of its £1.3 billion modernization strategy. Bob has been an active Member of the Association for Project Management (APM) for over 25 years. He is a past chairman of the APM's People & Team Working SIG, past committee member of the Programme Management SIG and a founder member of the APM's Enabling Change SIG where he pioneered UK Industry Change Practitioner Groups involving organizations such as the NHS, British Council, Heathrow Airport, Reuters and the Bank of America. He has published numerous articles on aspects of project management and contributed to the fifth and sixth editions of the APM Body of Knowledge. Bob holds MAPM, MoP, MSP, Prince and MoR qualifications and has worked as a Professional Industrial Mentor at Aston University. He is a Director of RDT IT Services Ltd and works helping organizations to plan, implement or assure major transformational change across their business.

Bob can be contacted at bobt8973@gmail.com

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Kelly Angus is Deputy Director of Human Resources at Northumbria Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust. She has worked closely alongside co-authors Paul Taylor and Karen Dumain on several important Do OD projects. Kelly is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development (CIPD), has an MBA, MA in HR Management and Development and is currently studying for an Executive Coaching and Mentoring Qualification. Kelly has over 20 years' experience within the NHS in Human Resources, OD and General Management roles at a senior level. She has recently become an inaugural graduate of the Nye Bevan Programme being Awarded the NHS Leadership award in Executive Healthcare Leadership.

Heather Bowers' experience ranges from several years in publishing to different roles in her 24 years at KPMG – audit, corporate finance and M&A, dotcom advisory, CRM implementation and innovation. Her last 15 years focused on internal change projects, all with deep behavioural and cultural implications. Most recently she was the founder of KPMG's Future Institute, offering foresight internally and to clients to provoke debate about change and disruption.

Heather stills works with KPMG, involved with their C-Suite Leadership programme which offers senior leaders the opportunity to continue that debate. Through Change Is An Opportunity she works with senior leadership teams to help organizations move from a risk mindset to seeing opportunity in the VUCA world. Contact Heather at ciao.heather@btinternet.com.

Ira Blake's expertise in change management has been developed through working with clients in pharmaceuticals, travel, local and central government, transport, not-for-profit, retail, media, retail banking and professional services sectors for over 15 years. She advises a portfolio of clients on complex, strategic and transformational change, focusing on building change leadership and change management capability in organizations.

Ira is an experienced consultant, mentor, speaker and writer on change management. A Global Assessor for the Change Management Institute's ACMM (Accredited Change Manager – Master) and one of the first to achieve ACMM in the UK, Ira was Co-Lead for CMI UK from 2012 to 2015. Ira is a Director at Uncommon Expertise Ltd and can be contacted at ira.blake@uncommonexpertise.co.uk.

Paul Brown is Faculty Professor, Organizational Neuroscience, Monarch Business School Switzerland; International Chairman of the Vietnam Consulting Group, Saigon; International Director of SIRTailors, Saigon; and Senior Adviser, the Vietnam Veterans of America Foundation, Hanoi.

A clinical and organizational psychologist and executive coach, he is creating a General Theory of the Individual and the Organization based upon mapping how energy flows or gets blocked in the pursuit of profit or other outcomes within the organizational system. He has recently co-authored Neuropsychology for Coaches: Understanding the basics (2012, McGraw-Hill/Open University Press); River Dragon (a novel, 2014); Neuroscience for Leadership: Harnessing the brain gain advantage (2015, Palgrave Macmillan); and The Fear-Free Organization (2015, Kogan Page).

Anthony Burrows is passionate about employee engagement, communication and helping businesses get better at the people side of change. He has worked in financial services for nearly 20 years and has helped a number of businesses turn around their fortunes through delivering record-breaking increases in employee engagement. He has built a reputation for transforming communications and engagement teams from tactical operators to strategic enablers and has won several awards in recognition of this.

Anthony is co-founder and a Managing Partner of Intelligent Emotion, a new and dynamic engagement, change and internal communication consultancy. 'Intelligent Emotion' reflects his belief that when used intelligently, emotion in business can unlock innovation and pride, and create competitive advantage.

David Caddle started his career as an engineering apprentice, before moving into blue-chip organizations in the aerospace, special-purpose machinery and telecommunication industries. During his career, David held positions in Production, Project and Quality engineering roles before moving into Quality and Programme Management. He has several years' consulting experience throughout the supply chain in change management, leading to significant enhanced quality, cost and delivery performance. David is an experienced engineer with a post-graduate qualification in manufacturing systems, and is also a member of The Chartered Quality Institute.

Robert Cole is an experienced, methodical and sensitive change management mentor, consultant and trainer. His clients have included financial, commercial, central and local government and charities, across many business sectors. He is involved in the development of professional qualification structures for change managers to recognize their growing competence. He also runs a company offering vocational change qualifications for those seeking to demonstrate their competence, both individuals and organizations.

Robert has moved through research project management, business management to change management, becoming involved in a dotcom start-up along the way. He has developed competence models and assessment tools for both innovation and change.

Tianne Croshaw has nearly 30 years' experience in the personal and business development field. She is a Mental and Emotional Resilience Coach and Trainer. She is also a Clinical Master Hypnotherapist and Stress Management Consultant as well as an NLP and EFT Practitioner.

Over the years Tianne has worked with organizations including Virgin Trains, an international pharmaceutical company, Her Majesty's Prison Service, Penna of London, Ted Baker, Superdry, Severnside Housing, Weaver Vale Housing, the Railway Children and Cheshire East Council as well as a number of primary and secondary schools.

Tianne is the co-creator of 'The Resilience Programme', which took an organization with 8 per cent stress and anxiety absenteeism to 0 per cent absence during the three years the programme ran. She can be contacted at: www.sustainableengagementpartnership.com.

Karen Dumain is the National Programme Lead for Organizational Development for the NHS Leadership Academy. Karen co-leads Do OD: Putting Theory into Practice – the expert resource on OD for the NHS. Karen shaped her practice working in the private and third sector before joining the NHS. Karen has a first degree in Behavioural Sciences and a master's in Leadership & Organization of Public Services, and is a CIPD Fellow as well as having the NTL applied behavioral sciences OD certificate.

The golden thread in all her work is the passion to enable and challenge people and organizations to be the best they can be, bringing a curiosity and belief in developing potential wherever people and teams might be within organizations and across systems.

Adi Gaskell is currently the Managing Director of the Horizons Tracker, an innovation consultancy based in London that helps organizations to respond to the change that's occurring in their industry. He has exceptional links with academia, government and companies both large and small to help you understand what is happening in your industry, and the knowledge of innovation and change management to know how best to respond to those changes.

He is also a thought leader in the field and has published a number of whitepapers on innovation, and also pens regular columns for Forbes and the Huffington Post. During this time, he has also judged a number of innovation competitions, including the NHS Innovation Challenge and the Katerva Innovation Challenge.

Peter Glynne is a management consultant with PwC specializing in leading complex change. He has over 20 years' experience across a range of sectors. Peter was formerly Head of Change and Programme Management for Westminster City Council and previously at Deloitte. He holds a master's degree in Project Management and is a qualified Chartered Secretary. Peter has authored many publications on project, programme and change management.

Peter is a Fellow of the Association for Project Management (APM), a member of the Audit and Assurance Committee and a member of the Specific Interest Group (SIG) Steering group since 2009. He is a member of the Portfolio Management SIG Committee and was also chair of the Benefits SIG for five years. In addition, Peter is chair of a leading UK charity.

Kevin Holmes is currently Senior Director for GSK's Accelerating Delivery and Performance (ADP) initiative and has been in that role since 2010. He has spearheaded the expansion of ADP from GSK's UK headquarters to its R&D facilities in the UK and Philadelphia and to its Vaccines division in Brussels, and is currently leading the deployment across Asia from Singapore.

Kevin has nearly 40 years' experience in the use of performance coaching, process improvement and management systems to lead enterprise transformation and re-engineering programmes for global MNC clients. His work has profoundly impacted tens of thousands of people, delivered many hundreds of millions of pounds in financial benefits and dramatically changed the way that client organizations change. He can be reached at kevinholmes@firebrandassociates.com.

Viren Lall is a business transformation and international executive education expert. His corporate experience includes delivery of transformation benefits of £410 million for telecoms, services and IT organizations. His business transformation hothouses were voted the best in BT's corporate memory. As the MD of ChangeSchool he is responsible for developing organizational capability in the UK, GCC and India. He has worked with UBS, Lloyds, Vodafone, Al

Rashid Group (Bahrain), SMEF (Oman), Landmark Group (UAE), AIESEC, Barclays, Graphisoft (Japan) and Satven (India). He also teaches the core MBA course at the Indian School of Business and executive education for London Business School. Viren has an Executive MBA with distinction from London Business School and can be reached at viren@changeschool.org.

Kate Lanz specializes in working with senior executives and teams, including the board. Kate's successful corporate career was notably as an International General Manager with Diageo. Kate holds degrees in languages, marketing and psychology and an MBA. She is a qualified coaching supervisor and is completing a doctorate in applied neuroscience.

Kate's clients include AXA, Accenture, Disney, Diageo, EY, GSK, Lloyds Bank and Morgan Stanley, among others. She is coaching faculty at INSEAD where she works globally.

A founder member of the Worldwide Association of Business Coaches, Kate is also accredited with the Association of Professional Executive Coaches and Supervisors. Kate has published numerous coaching articles and book chapters on supervision and team coaching. Kate has two teenage sons and recently dared to take up horse riding again!

Stephanie McGregor is an infrastructure specialist with 20+ years spanning public and private sectors, including energy, education, health, the arts, car sharing and urban planning. Known for delivering in complex regulatory and financing environments, Stephanie's diverse pedigree provides a rich perspective on navigating change challenges and making projects happen.

As the Director, Offshore Transmission, with UK energy regulator Ofgem, Stephanie played a leading role in creating the UK offshore electricity transmission market. She structured and executed a world-leading regulated asset competition, taking £1.1 billion in projects to market, attracting £4 billion of funding and saving UK consumers over £400 million. This model now covers over £2.2 billion in assets and has influenced future energy market models.

Stephanie holds urban planning, business administration and sustainable development qualifications.

John McLelland has recently retired from a major aerospace company where he was Head of Product Introduction. He began his career as an engineering graduate in product development in 1979, and after various business and programme management roles he attained his MBA at Glasgow Business School in 1990. Since then he has led the programme management of several major new product developments for his company, from concept through to entry into service, ensuring readiness in both internal and external supply chains. This experience established him as the company's expert in the field and he spent the final two years of his career leading improvements to the process itself. John currently resides with his wife Louise in Derby and can be contacted via LinkedIn.

Jacqueline Mitchell has 30 years' experience of people management; in later years as a board-level HR&OD Director. She has a deep understanding of an unusually broad range of people management issues, and an insightful and intuitive understanding of what it takes to lead an organization successfully; crucially, not just by talking about it, but by doing it.

Jacqueline now consults to UK businesses on people management and engagement practices through her business GrantaHR. She has a particular interest in helping businesses to improve employee engagement, as well as exploring her personal interest in team dynamics and causes of conflict.

Jacqueline has been a Chartered Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development since 2000 and can be contacted at jmitchell@grantahr.com.

Ruth Murray-Webster is Director, Change Portfolio for Associated British Ports Ltd and an Honorary Fellow of APM. Ruth has 30 years of experience in a series of roles across most sectors, supporting the delivery of change objectives. These include Director of the Risk in the Boardroom practice for KPMG LLP in the UK and 10 years as a Director of Lucidus Consulting Ltd.

Along this journey, Ruth researched organizational change from the perspective of the recipients of change for an Executive Doctorate at Cranfield School of Management. She has also taken a keen interest in risk management along the way, co-authoring four books on the people aspects of risk management with collaborators David Hillson and Penny Pullan.

Kevin Parry is a highly experienced Programme Director now working in healthcare transformation. He is a specialist in operational readiness with experience in the UK, Ireland, Mainland Europe and Asia. Kevin has advised international companies at board level on change management and in this capacity he planned and advised on operational readiness for a leading global airline prior to his current role.

Kevin is a Fellow of the Association for Project Management (APM) and has written articles on change for Project Magazine as well as speaking at APM events. He has more than 20 years of leading international and multicultural teams delivering major change. Kevin is a visiting lecturer at the University of Manchester and holds post-graduate Diplomas in Management and Company Direction.

John Pelton joined CH2M in 2011 and has since worked on HS2 and Crossrail. A civil engineering graduate of Imperial College, London, he has travelled around the world tackling a variety of challenges, increasingly focusing on the human dimension. John spent 29 years serving as a Royal Engineer officer. Towards the end of his Army career he undertook an Open University MBA and began to investigate different ways of managing change. After looking at how significant efficiencies could be achieved constructing HS2, he moved on to Crossrail to lead the pioneering Crossrail innovation programme. John relaxes by fishing and running mountain marathons, and enjoys challenging accepted practices whenever he has the opportunity.

Gillian Perry has been a leader in the field of change management for over 15 years. She is currently a Director of Change on a major change programme. She advises on change management strategy and is the Change Management Institute UK Co-Chair. She has worked across a number of industry sectors, and has significant experience in the utilities industry, most recently for National Grid. During that time, she has led and advised major change programmes across the international business.

She has a diverse skill set with a significant number of years working within human resources, information technology, finance and corporate centre functions, working in everything from change management and employee engagement through to corporate strategy.

Hilary Scarlett is an international speaker, consultant and author. Her work has spanned Europe, the United States and Asia and concentrates on the development of people-focused change programmes and employee engagement. Hilary works with leadership teams in the private and public sectors to help them build resilience and introduce change efficiently and effectively. She has won various global awards for her work in employee engagement and change management.

Hilary regularly writes and speaks on neuroscience and employee engagement. Her book Neuroscience for Organizational Change: An evidence-based, practical guide to managing change was published by Kogan Page in 2016 and has been widely praised.

Hilary is the Founder and Director at Scarlett & Grey: www.scarlettandgrey.com. Contact Hilary via info@scarlettandgrey.com.

Kate Stuart-Cox is a founding partner of the UK-based professional services firm Perspectiv, which works to increase the quantity and quality of creative problem solvers. She has experience working with clients in the United States, Asia and Europe across a wide range of businesses and functions. Kate is also a visiting lecturer at Cass Business School and part of the Centre for Creativity in Professional Practice, which carries out research and delivers both knowledge transfer programmes and the Masters in Creativity, Innovation and Leadership. Contact Kate at kate@perspectiv.co.uk; www.perspectiv.co.uk.

Paul Taylor created Do OD, the expert organizational development resource for the NHS. Paul works with the system to enable OD practitioners to connect, share, learn and grow. Paul is a member of CIPD, with a degree in Psychology and a Masters in HR Leadership, and is currently working on his Doctorate in Organizational Development. Paul joined the NHS in 2003 after a range of successful roles in local government and in the private and voluntary sectors. Paul's career encompasses organizational development, human resources, learning and development, and strategic workforce development roles. Paul's work is driven by a desire to help people unleash their full potential.

Andy Wilkins is a senior honorary visiting fellow at Cass Business School and part of the Centre for Creativity in Professional Practice, which carries out research and delivers both knowledge transfer programmes and the Masters in Creativity, Innovation and Leadership. He is also a founding partner of the UK-based professional services firm Perspectiv, which works to increase the quantity and quality of creative problem solvers. He has experience across a wide range of businesses, functions and needs across the world. E-mail: andy@perspectiv.co.uk. Twitter: @AndrewNWilkins.

Rod Willis FRSA FCFMI MSc MBA is an APECS Accredited Executive Coach and a Talent & Leadership Development Partner. He is a Fellow of the International Talent Advisory Board (ITAB), a Legal Education & Training Group recommended provider, an Associate & Accredited Coach and Facilitator of 'The Management Shift' programme and a Facilitator for Windsor Leadership. In 2016, he brought a Peer-Coaching process to the UK called CoachingOurselves – A Henry Mintzberg Program. He is a CoachingOurselves Certified Facilitator, and Assentire Ltd became a listed Partner of CoachingOurselves providing Certified Facilitator training within the UK for HR, L&D, OD & Coaching Professionals. He also specializes in exploring agility in Groups & Teams, optimising Group & Team Performance. E-mail: rod.willis@assentire.net. Twitter: @RodWillisGTC.

FOREWORD

The variety of challenges that face organizations are exciting, stimulating and at times fraught with danger. The demanding pace for change brings a particular complexity and pressure to the organizational leader driving hard to achieve required results. Often the most testing challenge that presents itself is organizational transformation and change: promising careers have been stalled or even halted when transformation has not been successful. The rate of change is now relentless and this challenge is regularly exposing those businesses unable to successfully evolve and respond to what is happening in the market, with increasing competition, with their supply chain and customer expectations. Organizational flexibility and agility, the ability to change fast and appropriately to the situation, is increasingly seen as the holy grail. Successful organizations now appear to be those able to grow through the development of new styles, new behaviours and new sets of practices.

My own experience has been gained from business leadership roles within the divisions of a blue chip organization, with an increasing transformational element. In recent years, transformation leadership and coaching other leaders through change has been a core part of my responsibilities with my present role leading Rolls-Royce's Civil Aerospace Transformation. Through these experiences I have learnt many lessons, many of which are reflected in Organizational Change Explained. This timely book has a broad appeal to organizations across industry sectors, regardless of size or maturity, and to all those individuals involved in change and transformation from Senior Leadership Teams to Operations.

There are many excellent articles, books and research available on how to lead and manage change, and on the mechanistic and procedural aspects of change. There are also numerous businesses preoccupied with selling their advice, proprietary methodology or approach to change and transformation. Whilst these are all of course important and useful, there is something further that I consider to be of specific relevance: the power of learning from the insights, shared experience and success of others. Organizational Change Explained provides just that. It is different because it consolidates vital lessons learnt from those who have experienced it for themselves, and because it addresses the realities of change and transformation. It explains change themes through the eyes of leading practitioners who have helped organizations change; who are candid about the difficulties they have faced and what they needed to do and mobilize to overcome them. The ideas and insights are based upon real situations, of particular benefit to all those who undertake or are involved in change within organizations. While Part 1 presents leading practitioner insights across 12 change themes gained from 18 industries, Part 2 challenges the reader to better understand how change might influence industry sectors and organizations for the future.

Organizational Change Explained will strike a chord with all those involved with organizational change and transformation, whether seasoned and experienced or new and aspiring. The benefit of such experience is invaluable, making Organizational Change Explained something you can read and reference throughout your career.

Rob Campling
Head of Strategic Programmes
Civil Aerospace Group
Rolls-Royce plc